1 (Proceedings heard via videoconference:) 2 THE COURT: Good morning, everyone. 3 Could I ask you to state your names and who you represent for the record, please. 4 5 MR. PARONICH: Good morning, Your Honor. 6 Anthony Paronich, counsel for the plaintiff. 7 THE COURT: Thank you, Mr. Paronich. 8 MR. CHAPMAN: And this is Nathan Chapman, counsel for 9 defendant. 10 THE COURT: Okay. Thanks, Mr. Chapman. 11 I asked you folks to be here. I have Judge Kness's 12 referral. 13 What is it that I can do to help you? And what do we 14 need to do? 15 MR. PARONICH: Your Honor, I guess I'll go first. 16 Anthony Paronich for the plaintiff. 17 We had our Rule 16 conference in front of 18 Judge Kness. He entered an order bifurcating discovery in the 19 case and then referring all discovery issues to Your Honor. 20 The parties have started by exchanging discovery 21 requests. I haven't had the chance to further connect with 22 Mr. Chapman on this, but the one issue that we were directed 23 to -- well, we were directed for any discovery issues. 24 think the only one that we have to discuss that came up at the 25 Rule 16 conference is, there have been discovery that's bifurcated. One of the issues that the plaintiff had in bifurcating discovery was the preservation of records that aren't with the defendant but could be in the hands of their third-party vendors.

I'll invite Mr. Chapman to kind of give a different position, but I think, from the plaintiff's perspective, we had an agreement on the record that the plaintiff would be able to alleviate that concern by issuing subpoenas to those third parties.

So in terms of immediate discovery supervision, from the plaintiff's perspective, all we need to do is figure out a conduit to receiving that information, which, admittedly, goes outside of the bifurcated discovery and addressing that concern.

MR. CHAPMAN: This is Mr. Chapman for defendant.

I think that's largely correct. The only clarification I would add is that we -- I believe we specifically discussed the issue of the subpoenas for preservation of documents and information that would then be returnable at a date -- a later date after the bifurcated initial phase of discovery had taken place.

MR. PARONICH: So -- and, Your Honor, I don't mean to interrupt.

MR. CHAPMAN: No, that was the clarification that I had.

THE COURT: But, no, go ahead.

MR. PARONICH: And so that -- I think that's a fair clarification, but I might just have a slightly different view, but I hope it's a distinction without a difference, is, from the plaintiff's perspective, we agree that in terms of getting the responsive documents, it, of course, should come after the bifurcated discovery period, but how I envisioned this proceeding is that we would issue subpoenas to these vendors, we'd have a return date that's within the current discovery period, but the only document that would be required to be provided is a commitment that the documents that are listed in the Schedule A are being preserved during the bifurcated discovery period.

Because if we don't get a response that the documents are being preserved, we think that could justify good cause to come into court and to potentially either seek those documents or take other steps that would ensure a preservation when the third party has failed to adequately respond.

THE COURT: Okay. And what's -- what's the defendant's response to that clarification?

MR. CHAPMAN: That -- that's acceptable. That's completely similar with what we discussed before.

MR. PARONICH: Yeah.

MR. CHAPMAN: I don't -- I don't really think -- you know, that can occur I think without court supervision.

The only really outstanding issue that I had to discuss today was just setting a discovery deadline for the initial phase and then, you know, a deadline for any date after that for any dispositive motions.

Other than that the parties have issued written

Other than that, the parties have issued written discovery to each other. Mr. Paronich's clarification and statement to the Court about the preservation subpoenas is accurate with his clarification. The defendant has no objection to that.

So, you know, that's -- that's -- from our perspective, the only thing that really -- we'd like to see today in getting a -- a deadline for the close of the first phase of discovery.

THE COURT: Well, I thought he gave a close date of January 8th, did he not?

MR. CHAPMAN: Yeah, he did, and he asked us to discuss that deadline with -- with you, and it's --

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. CHAPMAN: -- it's fine with us. He just specifically directed us to bring that up with you and make sure that you were okay with it and that it was okay with the parties.

THE COURT: Anything that he wants is fine with me.

Are you folks okay with the date?

MR. PARONICH: From the plaintiff's perspective, we're fine with it, Your Honor. Obviously we have the (indiscernible) coming up, but both parties have already exchanged their requests. So I think as we get the responses and work through the meet-and-confer process, if we believe we need more time, then we'll approach the Court. But we kind of have a unique conduit for a grievant here in litigation that both parties want to get through this initial phase as quickly as possible just for different reasons.

THE COURT: Yeah, no, I agree with you.

So let's plan on simply going along with his timetable, which, as of now, is January 8th for discovery regarding the named plaintiff. Fact discovery -- well, I shouldn't say it. Discovery is fact and depositions. I (indiscernible) them up.

Do you folks envision something different than January 8th as being sufficient to do what he wants done?

MR. PARONICH: None at this time, Your Honor, for the plaintiff.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. CHAPMAN: None, Your Honor, not for the defendant.

THE COURT: Great. And that will do with whatever deposition or depositions you may have in mind, at least as of now, right?

MR. PARONICH: That's correct, Your Honor.

MR. CHAPMAN: Correct. 1 THE COURT: Okay. Great. 2 3 If you need anything like on some (indiscernible) 4 basis, call Yulonda, tell her that we need to get together, 5 and she'll make the arrangements and we'll have a conference. 6 If not, let's do this: Why don't we set the next 7 status for mid-January, Yulonda. 8 THE CLERK: Mid-January, okay. 9 THE COURT: Yeah. 10 And hopefully I won't see or talk to you folks before 11 But if you need me, I'm here. then. 12 Are you going to be taking depositions? 13 MR. PARONICH: I think both parties currently plan 14 to, Your Honor. We'll have a little more clarity when we get 15 the specific discovery responses, but we've already started, 16 at least for the plaintiff, discussing a deposition of the 17 plaintiff. 18 THE COURT: Should there be any issues during the 19 depositions, pick up the phone and call Yulonda, and she'll 20 get me and we'll resolve these on the phone if we can. 21 MR. PARONICH: Thank you, Your Honor. 22 Thank you, Your Honor. MR. CHAPMAN: 23 THE CLERK: January --24 THE COURT: And don't hesitate to call. 25 MR. PARONICH: Thanks, Your Honor.
